COTTON, WHEAT, STOCKS SOAR M'DONALD PRESENTS NEW PEACE PLAN

BRITISH PREMIER PLEADS FOR PEACE AT GENEVA MEET

URGES FRANCE AND GERMANY TO ABANDON FEAR;
CULTIVATE CONFIDENCE

GENEVA, Switzerland, Mar. 16.—(P)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, presenting a new plan for peace and security to the world disarmament conference today, proposed an army of 200,000 men for Germany doubling the maximum limit set by the Treaty of Versailles.

The armies of Italy and France would be reduced to the same numerical strength, but France would be reduced to the same force of 200,000 and Italy of 30,000.

This would reduce the French army about one-third, paralleling the proposal of President Hoover.

No maximum was suggested for the British army, nor does it include any attempt to limit non-European forces.

Italian effectiveness would be fixed at 50,000, Hungary at 60,000 and Bulgaria at 60,000.

The French "allies" would be lined up: Poland 200,000, Rumania 150,000, Czechoslovakia 100,000.

Russia would be given half a million men.

The plan would extend the London naval treaty to include France and Italy. It also would extend the naval holiday on capital ships to the powers except Italy, which would be permitted to build one ship to balance the new French cruiser Dunkirk.

Navy for Germany
Germany would be freed legally from the naval restrictions imposed by the Versailles treaty, but actually her naval power would be fixed at the present level until 1936.

The proposed treaty would remain in force for five years. During that period special international commissions would be created to attempt conciliation and settlement of vexing political problems now disturbing Europe. A second general arms conference would be held just before the expiration of the five year period.

Mr. MacDonald admitted that thus far he had been unable to draw out a way to guarantee that civil aircraft will not be converted to war purposes. Such a guarantee is essential to the abolition of military aircraft.

Therefore he proposed limitation by quantity and suggested these specific figures:

Airplane Limitations
For the United States 500 airplanes; Great Britain 500; France 800; Japan 500; Italy 500; and smaller figures for other countries. He did not suggest a maximum for Germany.

"These figures are not like the laws of the Medes and the Persians," he said, "they can be altered."

COURT ACTION MAY FOLLOW EARTHQUAKE DAMAGE TO SCHOOLS

RUMORED FAULTY CON- STRUCTION TO BE INVEST- IGATED BY ENGINEERS

LOS ANGELES, March 16.—(P)—Court action may follow revelations of engineers investigating the construction of buildings wrecked by last Friday's earthquake, District Attorney Burton Fitts said today.

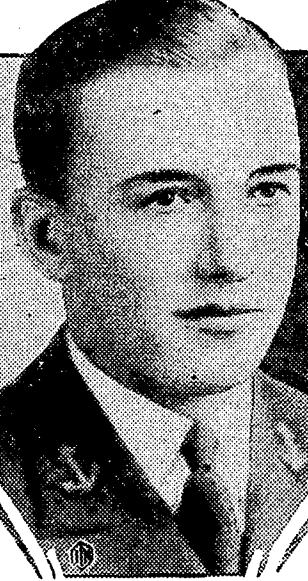

He informed Coroner Frank Daniels' representatives of the district attorney's office would attend Tuesday's inquest of quake damage which was caused primarily with construction of buildings, including public schools.

Public school systems of Los Angeles and Long Beach were among the hardest hit groups of buildings. Fifty construction engineers are retesting damaged schools in Los Angeles, all of which have been closed until Monday, when most of them were scheduled to open.

If sufficient facts are developed in the inquiry by investigating engineers warranting action by this office, Fitts said, "that action will be promptly forthcoming."

The death toll today stood at 116.

TALK OF WAR AND ARMAMENT RACES STIRRING EUROPE

HEADS OF CHIEF NATIONS GETTING TOGETHER AVERT THREATENING CLASHES

(By The Associated Press.)
Talk of war and of armament races stirred various European capitals to day while the heads of chief nations were getting together to try to avert threatening clashes.

Premier MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Simon of England will talk Saturday in Rome with Premier Mussolini in the produce's first international conference in eight years.

Premier Daladier of France hastened to Geneva last night to see the British statesmen again after parleys with them last week-end. His decision came suddenly after the announcement they were going to Rome.

Unconfirmed reports in Rome said Adolf Hitler of Germany may join the MacDonald-Mussolini conference while attempts to confirm this in Berlin brought the official response that "anything might happen."

Premier MacDonald has a disarmament plan drawn up as a final offering to break the deadlock in the international efforts to seek an agreement for reductions. Disarmament was officially reported as the subject of the conferences between the various premiers.

But unofficially a widespread belief is widespread, particularly in London, that a new order of European alliances, such as those that preceded the war, would be formed.

Commodities Are Firm In Trading Moderate Gains

By The Associated Press.
Firmness was the predominating characteristic of most commodities Thursday.

Prices on all staple commodities that go into food supplies were generally higher, although most advances were only moderate.

Butter recorded the sharpest price advance with a rise of 1 to 1-1/2 cents a pound wholesale at Chicago. Elsewhere oil advanced behind with a gain of 1 cent a dozen. Poultry prices were up, but potatoes ruled slightly weaker because of slow trading.

Hogs were quoted slightly higher on best light kinds. Cattle and sheep were also steady to strong. Wholesale demand for dressed meats was reported considerably better in the Middle West, but draggy in Eastern cities.

Minneapolis, home of the flour industry, reported prices unchanged, but family patents, flour and smaller figures for other countries. He did not suggest a maximum for Germany.

"These figures are not like the laws of the Medes and the Persians," he said, "they can be altered."

NORMAN H. DAVIS NAMED CHAIRMAN OF ARMS DELEGATION

UNITED STATES IS TAKING STEPS TAKE FULL SHARE IN CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(P)—The central figures in the group that will aid in carrying out the Roosevelt foreign policy began to move into place today with the appointment of Norman H. Davis to head the American delegation to the disarmament conference.

Hardly had he been designated before a Senate committee approved the selection of Josephus W. Daniels as ambassador to Mexico and Jess I. Straus to represent this country at Paris. It will be held action upon the appointment of Robert W. Bingham of Louisville as ambassador to Great Britain.

Davis will have the rank of ambassador in his capacity as head of the American disarmament delegation. He is an experienced diplomat and served on the delegation in the last administration. He is a Tennessee democrat. Daniels is a North Carolina publisher and Straus a New York merchant.

The tall Mississippian who only last night concluded successful steering of President Roosevelt's $500,000,000 economy bill, explained the provisions of the Volstead modification measure.

He said it was estimated the bill would raise from $125,000,000 to $150,000,000.

The new bill is the second step in the Roosevelt program for balancing the budget, of which the economy measure is the keystone.

Asked to co-operate, Davis said he would be pleased to get through a bill to legalize beer in the district of Columbia, but he opposed adding legislation to the pending measure. With that asur-

Thousands Men to Be Employed When Mines Reopened

MIAMI, Okla., March 16.—(P)—

Approximately 1,900 men will be given employment in lead and zinc mines to be reopened within the next few days in the Tri-State area, mining company officials announced today.

The Rialto Mining Company and the Vinegar Hill Zinc Company plan to reopen their workings Friday, employing about 250 men.

The Eagle-Picher Mining and Smelting Company will reopen its Benders Mill Sunday. Mines supplying these mills with ore will be opened Monday, re-employing about 750 men. The Admiralty Zinc Company which closed its two mines two weeks ago also plan to reopen soon.

Business Picks Up As Nearly Half a Million Is Deposited Local Banks

Reports from all sections of the business district of Corsicana early Thursday indicated conditions were rapidly returning to normalcy after the two-week banking holiday and a majority of the merchants indicated a strong belief that business would improve gradually from this time forward.

Thursday was just an ordinary day with the two Corsicana banking institutions, and only a normal amount of business was being transacted. Bank clerks worked far into the night Wednesday clearing away the heavy accumulation of checks turned in by depositors on the re-opening date, but the tedious business was completed before the Thursday opening hour.

Almost a half million dollars was deposited in the two Corsicana banks Wednesday as a result of the campaign for everybody to make a deposit. The approximate figures as announced by bank officials late Wednesday totalled $475,000, and it was reported that approximately thirty-five per cent of that sum was net gain in deposits.

Increase in Collections.

A tremendous increase in collections on February accounts was reported by a majority of the merchants doing a credit business, one of them reporting that he received more payments Wednesday than he had in any five previous days in the month.

Grocery stores reported an increased volume of business as the housewives were once more supplied with cash for table delicacies where their purchases during the past two weeks had been limited strictly to table necessities.

Party leaders were hopeful of its approval by late afternoon, as Senators Sheppard (D., Tex.) and Borah (R., Idaho), assailed the measure.

The Texan, a sponsor of the Eighteenth amendment, told the Senate the bill would result in "unfold waste and ruin to this republic."

Borah, his voice booming to the crowded galleries, said there was nothing in the bill to prevent return of the saloon which he characterized as "the most hideous institution with which civilization has ever had to do with."

The Senate approved an amendment to legalize beer as well as beer of 3.2 per cent by weight and subject it to the same tax of $5 a barrel.

Citizens Urged Pay Pledges To Relief Committee

Partial resumption of the activities of the Corsicana Unemployment Relief Committee on Friday and Saturday was announced Thursday by officials in charge of the work who reported that 154 of the neediest white residents would be given work on the last two days of the week.

Resumption on normal scale is anticipated on Monday of next week.

Members of the committee stated also that they were faced with the necessity of collecting a great majority of the pledges made to the Emergency Relief Fund before Navarro county could qualify for the April allotment of funds which has been withheld while state and national officials check the efforts made locally to relieve the situation.

W. C. Coopertor, of the committee, said approximately $800 was received from the pledges made about two days ago to continue the work, but in the neighborhood of $2,000 pledged originally remains unpaid.

Every subscriber to the relief fund is urged to send in their check or cash on their pledges as soon as possible in order to secure continued federal aid.

An allotment of $12,500 was made for the month of March for the relief in Navarro county, and one-fourth of $3100 has been received, the remainder to be paid later.

Officials said that through a concentrated check on the various jobs, almost every man who refused to put in a full day of honest work on the project to which he was assigned has been eliminated from the lists of those receiving aid from the committee.

Efforts are being made to have the men seek permanent employment where possible on farms and in other places.

Those in charge of the work reported that a large percentage of those unable to find employment beside that furnished by the committee had signed up for garden plots to augment their livelihood during the spring and summer months. Approximately 800 have signed up to work part-time to make sure of last-minute legislative details.

Sincerely yours,
J. H. ROBERTS,

ROOSEVELT ECONOMY MEASURE IS FINALLY PASSED BY CONGRESS

GIVES PRESIDENT POWER TRIM HALF BILLION DOL- LARS FROM EXPENSES

WASHINGTON, Mar. 16. (P)—Final congressional approval was given today to President Roosevelt's request for authority to trim governmental expenses $500,000 by slashing veterans allowances and federal pay.

The measure carrying the authority, the second administration proposal to be acted upon by the extra session, now goes to the White House for President Roosevelt's signature that will make it law.

No motion of Representative McDuffie of Alabama, chairman of the special economy committee, the house today concurred in the senate amendments. The house vote was 374 to 19.

SUPPORTED ECONOMY BILL

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 16.—(Spl.)—Congressman Luther A. Johnson supported the President's economy bill today when the House reconsidered it and in a speech pointed out its terms had been liberalized and made more equitable by the forty amendments adopted by the Senate.

They were for the protection of veterans.

President Roosevelt submitted the program to congress last Friday in a special message. It was passed by the house Saturday.

The five amendments put in the bill were accepted by the house after word came from the White House that they were acceptable to President Roosevelt.

The senate adopted five amendments that would permit no increase in veterans' salaries and another would leave to the discretion of the President whether to make hospitalization available to non-service connected disabilities.

A third forbade removal from the rolls of any veterans of dis-

FARM LEGISLATION AND UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF NEXT STEP

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO SEND ANOTHER MESSAGE CONGRESS THURSDAY

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(P)—President Roosevelt decided to day to submit only his farm relief program in the message going to Capitol Hill late today.

To accommodate the congressional leaders he agreed to withhold the emergency unemployment plan until tomorrow later.

The farm measure which received its final touch at a lengthy conference this noon between the President and the Secretary of Agriculture will be submitted with a plea for urgent action.

The President conferred over the telephone with congressional leaders and reached his decision to separate the farm and unemployment proposals, inasmuch as they will have to go to separate committees.

Secretary Wallace upon leaving for White House said agreement has been reached on the new farm bill and it would be ready for transmission to congress about 4 o'clock today.

Pending the formal drafting of the measure the secretary withheld details. It is the idea of the President to employ a one year experimental agricultural relief plan aimed at control of production.

Leasing by the government of non-profitable marginal lands to withdraw them from production is one of the elements of the plan.

Washington, Mar. 16.—(P)—"Full speed ahead" on legislation to help farmers was President Roosevelt's call to congress today, after enactment of his massive economy program.

The latest message to the Capitol, another brief one, had to be deferred until late in the day because the President and his aids found it necessary to work hours to make sure of last-minute legislative details.

NATION'S LEADING COMMODITY MARKETS ADVANCED THURSDAY

FEW APPOINTMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE TO DATE BY ROOSEVELT

DESIRE AWAITS CULMINATION OF REORGANIZATION PLAN BELIEVED CAUSE

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Democrats who months ago turned anxious eyes toward federal jobs held by republicans have had scant use so far for lists they obtained of jobs that could be referred.

With President Roosevelt in office nearly two weeks now, there have been few of the replacements which had been accepted by some democrats as certain to come.

The postoffice department has its quota of new postmasters general, and two new assistants installed at the state department. Franklin D. Roosevelt's old-time assistant secretary in the state department is still in office, however, and two other assistant secretaries have not been filled.

Undersecretary Arthur A. Ballantine and James H. Douglas, assistant secretary, remain at the treasury and constantly at the elbow of Secretary Woodin. There is one vacant assistant secretaryship which no move has been made to fill, and the acting head of other major bureaus—internal revenue commissioner, United States attorney, commissioner of industrial alcohol—were republican appointees.

The commerce department is without a first assistant secretary since Julius Klein resigned, but Clarence Young remains as assistant in charge of aviation.

The assistant to Secretary Denby of the war department has not been named, and posts are vacant at the justice department. Professor Rexford Tugwell has been selected but not yet confirmed as assistant secretary of agriculture.

Failing to fill any of these posts has been attributed to the desire of President Roosevelt to await the culmination of his reorganization plan, under which many of the positions probably will be abolished and some set to different functions.

But even on minor jobs filled as patronage, the shake-up which will come eventually still impends. While the president has said he is too busy to bother with appointments, Postmaster General Farley, who is director of patronage, has been assigned to work over the lists. There have been indications that these patronage posts will not be filled until the president's program has been put through congress.

The suggestions that Mr. Roosevelt might use the same patronage might use them as leverage to force democratic support was heard on the house floor last week.

DAVIS

(United From Page 1) ions, a temporary committee on the Manchurian problem had expressed its "sincere thanks" for the American government's action in naming a representative to sit in its meetings.

The note from Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league, said the committee was happy to have Hugh L. Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, take part in its deliberations on the conditions set forth by the United States that we have no vote, and that this government be not bound by any decisions.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Norman H. Davis today was named as chairman of the American delegation to the disarmament conference, with the rank of ambassador.

Davis, a Tennessean, a democrat and experienced diplomat, has been a member of the delegation under the Hoover administration.

His elevation to its chairmanship was said by state department officials to mean primarily that this government is taking all due steps to perform its full share of responsibility with relation to the conference.

Membership of the delegation which Davis will head has not yet been definitely determined.

Davis, it is understood, will seek to use the good offices of the United States to allay fear and distrust which have endangered accomplishments in the way of reducing armaments, navies, and, at this time, threatening the breakdown of the conference.

In connection with war debts, a state department spokesman today said that if France should make its $19,000,000 interest payment due last December the sum would not only be welcome but doubly and triply welcome.

This was the only official comment on efforts being made by former Premier Herriot and others in France to get that country's national legislature to reverse its previous stand against payment.

The convention would be held 45 days after the election and the successful delegates would cast a "dummy" vote for or against ratification in accord with the will expressed by a majority of the voters.

Both wets and drys agreed to the Hughes bill, although there was a difference of opinion as to when the election should be held.

The house passed another moratorium bill. It would suspend foreclosure on real property for 120 days from March 15. A proposal to exempt personal property was stricken out.

School Funds Bill.

The proposal engrossed but failed to pass, finally, a bill to give West Texas owners of state patented oil land time in which to pay their obligations due the school funds under a supreme court ruling which held the fund was entitled to half the bonus and rentals in which to pay. Oil companies that had leased property would not be permitted to take advantage of the bill.

The house committee on oil, gas and mining engrossed a bill to appropriate a sum for participating the state in the Texas reorganization commission in administering the East Texas oil field. A minority group filed a report in which the commission's actions were upheld.

KEEPING THE WORLD IN TRIM TO MEET THE DAY'S STRAIN*

What the Investigators Have Found About the Fitness of Workers--Ancient Wisdom Upon The Modern Problem of Strong Drink.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Everybody with a sense of responsibility is out to help make right what is wrong with the world. That is the supreme task of the times.

Political changes, economic measures, social programs, world problems, all are but parts of this one big enterprise. Problems beset us on every hand, like a surrounding group of grinning sphinxes; but they all pose the same riddle. How can this old world be made a better place for human beings to live in?

Never before were so many quack nostrums offered to ailing people. They range all the way from technocracy to oriental religions. We have multitudes of reformers, with pet panaceas, but not real leaders. Even the children know that things are wrong; but how to make them right. Yet to find a way is the first and greatest task of civilization.

What The Survey Showed

Now and alluring path to Utopia are being pointed out by many, but that strange quality which we know as the common sense of the common people, rejects these, and prefers the old and tested roads which run through the heart and life and are built upon human character.

Recently a group of investigators one of the many making surveys of everything under the sun and beyond the sun, presented a comprehensive report upon why employed persons are discharged from their positions. It is needless to go over all the bewildering statistics which they compiled. But their general conclusion is arresting even startling, and deserving a place upon the walls of every school and every home.

For these men found out that overwhelmingly, the reasons for the discharge of employees were only incidentally within the realm of skill and occupational competence; but that they mostly had to do with the character of the workers. They called these unemployability defects character traits—unreliability, laziness, shirking, tardiness, dissipation, lack of a definite, honest work.

In a word, the report indicated the character of many workers. It is not brighter brains or more clever hands that the world's workshops need, but the old-fashioned qualities of sterling character.

At the Root of the Matter

That verdict holds good in all the larger affairs of a world that is out of kilter. We have got to find our way out of the present mess along the lines of human character. A new spirit, a new purpose, a new integrity must be cultivated in the lives of individuals and women.

Right here is where the present Sunday School Lesson enters with its old teachings concerning the effects of alcoholic drinks. The theme assigned is not the vexed question of prohibition, but that at that time the beer was 3.5 per cent alcohol content as compared with 3.2 in the pending bill.

Sheppard said some had contended that beer drinking increases the death rate and causes automobile accidents by retarding reactions in emergency situations.

He quoted Billy Sunday as saying: "A powder mill in hell would be as safe to control as the liquor traffic."

Sheppard said in the record in the telegram placed in an unnamed source saying inclusion of wine was "commendable" since a "delicious beverage" of this type had been "compounded in laboratories under government permit."

It was admitted that it would be impossible to make a palatable wine by natural fermentation within the 3.2 per cent limit, the telegram stated, but contended he should not "prejudice consideration congress might give to the legalization of naturally fermented wine."

Sheppard said some had contended that beer drinking increases the death rate and causes automobile accidents by retarding reactions in emergency situations.

Quoting President Roosevelt's campaign statements to the effect that the saloon would not be permitted to come back, Borah said:

Fears Return of Saloon

"I will undertake to show not only that this beverage is intoxicating, but that no conditions are imposed which prevent the return of that institution not only condemned by the President, but by every right-thinking man and wholesome woman in the country."

Borah said he was willing to argue the question from the standpoint that congress was under a "mandate" to change the

BEER BILL

(Continued From Page 1) ance, Tydings said he would not press his amendment for the capital, but he said he wanted to make the local law a model for state legislation, "so that the old slogan as we knew it, would not return."

Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.) suggested an amendment declaring 3.2 beer non-intoxicating but Harrison objected, saying it might cause controversy.

The title of the bill declares it is a measure to "provide revenue by the taxation of certain non-intoxicating liquors."

Without further ado, the senate then proceeded to the consideration of the "Wine Is Added."

The first was the addition of 3.2 wine and fruit juice and it was speedily approved without debate.

Senator Sheppard told the senate brewers had testified before a house committee it would take two years and cost $360,000,000 to produce half as much beer as was sold in 1914.

They testified, he said, it would set for $20 a barrel retail.

"This means," Sheppard added, "that consumers will pay $800,000,000 a year for beer in two years and later $1,600,000,000 when the sale is as large as formerly."

"In order to secure $200,000,000 in taxes a new industry is to be constructed costing the masses of the people $800,000,000 later this will be doubled."

"Of this $600,000,000 will go to the brewers and $200,000,000 to the government, all from the pockets of the people. What a desolate and tragic form of taxation."

Sheppard said that in pre-prohibition days most of the money spent for beer went to beer.

Extensive advertising campaigns were prepared in many cities. One New York brewer authorized a $100,000 outlay for newspaper advertising as soon as beer is legalized.

St. Louis brewers, celebrating the enactment of a state beer bill yesterday, paraded their draft prohibition laws.

"It seems to me," he added, "that there has been considerable apprehension what that mandate was. x x x there was a mandate relative to the non-return of the saloon and secondly for protection of the dry states. We undertook to take care of the latter when we dealt with the 18th amendment."

Quoting from the democratic platform calling for beer which would be permitted under the constitution, Borah said necessarily such a beverage must be "non-intoxicating."

Sheppard said the beer industry owned most of the 177,000 saloons in the pre-prohibition days that at that time the beer was 3.5 per cent alcohol content as compared with 3.2 in the pending bill.

UNIVERSITY PAPER PRINTS INTERESTING STORY OF JOE WELLS

Montana Governor Resigns and Then Named as Senator

Under the heading "Brief Sketches of Legislators," the Daily Texan, official University of Texas student publication, Austin, Texas, a photo and the following comment was carried Tuesday, March 14, 1933, relative to Joe Kelton Wells of Corsicana, which will be read with interest by his many friends in Navarro county:

From the University of Texas to the legislature in one step is thefeat accomplished by Joe K. Wells of Corsicana who is serving his first term in the House of Representatives. In the campaign for representative Mr. Wells defeated three opponents who were men with large political followings. Although successful in his first political venture, Mr. Wells intends to continue his studies in the School of Law.

Mr. Wells was born in Corsicana in 1909. After graduating from Corsicana high school in 1927 he entered the University and continued his studies until 1931 when he withdrew in order to enter politics. While in the University he was a member in the Half Moon fraternity.

Man Convicted Of Burning His Adopted Daughter

AUSTIN, March 14.—(P)—Calvin E. Yarbrough of Belton was given 25 years imprisonment by a Travis county district court jury today in connection with the death of his adopted daughter Doris, who was fatally burned.

The 16-year-old girl was burned while helping Yarbrough clean an automobile. Her clothes caught fire from a block lamp after gasoline had been spilled on them.

The state claimed Yarbrough plotted the girl's death to collect $12,000 insurance carried on her $12,000 insurance carried on her accidental death. The defense claimed the burns were accidental.

New Securities Over-Subscribed On Opening Day

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(P)—Secretary Woodin in a brief statement today said the country's response in oversubscribing the $800,000,000 issue of treasury certificates at the time the country was emerging from its banking difficulties was a most fine example of the co-operation of the country in carrying out the government's financial plan."

The issue of five and nine month certificates, bearing 4 and 4 1/2 per cent interest, was oversubscribed two and one half times the day the books were opened.

It constituted the treasury's spring financing and the proceeds will be used to retire $694,000,000 of maturing certificates and pay $50,000,000 interest on the public debt.

Alderman Corr Named Succeed Cermak as Mayor

CHICAGO, March 15.—(P)—A veteran politician, pledged to uphold the policies of the martyred Anton J. Cermak, today was at the helm of the affairs of the country's second city.

He is Alderman Frank J. Corr, 56-year-old member of the city council, who was elected last night as mayor pro tempore by the council following a bitter debate, climaxed by refusal of his opponent, Alderman John S. Clark, to adhere to participating in the election. Corr's opponent conceded the balloting should have been closed instead of open.

Praise Citizenship For Patriotism and Loyalty

It is a pleasure to announce that we, your banks, have been licensed by the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States to resume regular banking operations. We can but feel a thrill of pride for the patience and forbearance displayed by our customers during the recent enforced holiday with the attendant inconveniences and annoyance caused by the interruption of their normal banking relations.

The intelligence with which the people of our community grasped the situation, their acceptance of a law which brought the greatest good to the greatest number, the clear understanding and unselfish manner with which they have conformed to the Presidential decree will ever stand as an example of patriotism and loyalty.

Each officer and employee in your banks stands ready to devote his time to the demands of a new day, which we believe and trust is the beginning of a new and better era.

CORSICANA, TEX., MAR. 17, 1933

DIVERTING GAS TAX

Through their national association the cement manufacturers are disseminating propaganda designed to enlist gasoline users in a movement opposing further diversion of gasoline taxes and automobile license fees from highway uses. The cement industry and gasoline users have a common interest since both want more highway construction and better maintenance.

The association is right when it says that motorists acquiesced when the gasoline tax was first proposed because of promises, expressed or implied, that the money would be used for improving roads.

Not only have the state governments gone to extremes in pyramiding the gas tax year after year but they have broken their promise to use the money only for highway purposes. Several state are diverting this income into their general funds and two—Illinois and New Jersey—have pledged gasoline tax receipts for 20 years for the retirement of bonds having nothing to do with roads.

Most state constitutions forbid special taxes which discriminate against a certain group except for a special purpose, but that seems not to worry the legislators. They get the money on the pretext of using it for the benefit of those they take it from, and once they have the cash the taxpayer may as well whistle up a tree.

Why not enlist in this campaign the jobless who benefit from highway expenditures, 91 per cent of which go into wages and salaries?

SHORT-LIVED IDOLS

Countless books have been written and reams of advice dispensed on how to achieve success. It is odd that so little is said about what is really far more important, namely; how to hold success once you have won it.

This is really a vital question in America where the avenues to fame are broad and numerous, but where public applause is being constantly transferred from one subject to another.

Many people get their names on the front page once, but so few of them keep it there.

The man who makes a million today may with the same facility and a corresponding turn of luck become a pauper tomorrow. The man who is chosen president of a company for a particular piece of work must continue to produce every day if he is to hold his job. The author whose novel joins the best sellers must keep on writing best sellers to keep his name in the literary limelight.

Not infrequently individuals mistake appearances of success for success itself. The public must have its ideals and nobody knows this better than the publicity man. And no sooner has the publicity man created one idol than he discards it to begin the creation of a new one.

So long as the American public is fickle, so long as its taste demands variety in the place of long-established quality and so long as the machinery for turning out idols is superior to the material at hand, success for most people is likely to be short and sweet. When popular worship forsakes a champion swimmer for a trans-oceanic flier the action is more eloquent than words.

You can tell when a man becomes conscious of age. He begins to call his old cronies "the boys." Economy without loss of

JUST FOLKS

RE-DISCOVERED JOYS
Well, anyhow when dinner's done
We two can share the children's fun.
And after they are put to bed
We've many a book which can be read.
Or till our own bedtime shall come
We'll play a friendly game of chess!

So long it seems we've been away
We have forgotten how to play.
We have forgotten friendly books
And knights and castles, pawns and rooks.
Where is that set which we possess?
Let's burn if we can still play chess!

Twas good to know you still can
So excellent a chocolate cake.
I would have sworn until right now,
My fear, that you'd forgotten how,
I'll bet you smiled to burn once more
Your knuckles on the oven door.

Well, we have had our lavish fling.

But, now if shall the doorknob ring
We'll know it is a friend who calls.

What's more, within these sheltering walls

We'll find that countless joy abide
Which formerly we'd thrust aside.

CHURCH UNION

A clergyman addressing theological students seeking ordination reminds them to live usefully and to conserve their health inasmuch as four thousand ministers die in this country each year and only two thousand come out of colleges and seminaries to take their places.

About the same time another minister made the observation that there are too many preachers. There is one Protestant minister for 141 church members. The average in the Catholic church is one priest for 965 communicants.

Too many preachers, if such is the case, means too many churches. And the over-supply of churches means denominational rivalries, church debts, run-down churches and under-paid parsons. If the supply of ministers is being reduced by death, the future will bring relief through a union of Protestant churches whether some denominational leaders like it or not.

At bottom, the zeal of the recruiting agents for the ministry is fanned by the desire to keep in existence all churches already established; to keep denominational fences in repair, and to flatter the die-hard spirit of many congregations that have outlived their reason for living.

That four thousand ministers die every year seems to be a law of nature. That but one-half this number comes forward to fill the breaches in the ranks seems to be the law of supply and demand. For thousands of churches cannot reasonably demand a pulpit supply either on the ground of efficiency or religious need.

Economic necessity threatens to bring about that union of churches which has been resisted these many years for little or no reason. It already has made some progress by discouraging further denominational and congregational splits.

IMPRactical EDUCATION

Federal contributions to the support of the public schools, which the states and communities can no longer support in the manner to which they have been accustomed, would be popular with the public but for two things: The federal government has nothing to contribute, and when it supports something financially it insists on controlling it.

The 50 educators who formulated the report recommending federal aid for the schools had in mind the immediate good of the schools, a concern they probably thought sufficient to be obtained in legislative halls, on the lecture platform and on the street corner.

Efficiency is possible in school administration as any number of districts have demonstrated with necessity as the mother of their invention. It hasn't been easy but it has been possible.

The case of Philadelphia illustrates what is going on all over the land. Economies effected in that city are equivalent to 400 salaries. It isn't a question of the responsibility of the state and community to the schools but of the ability of the taxpayers to support them.

Maybe democracies choose stupid rulers, and maybe wise men seem that way when they try to rule a democracy.

It is estimated that if all surplus products were placed end to end they might reach the people who have not any.

SILVER

Silver finds many champions in the present congress, nor do they all hail from the half-starved, silver-producing states. All, however, are inflationists. Some are primarily interested in creating a market for silver, which is suffering from low prices; others in finding a panacea for the country's economic and financial ills.

One bill, now before the house coinage sub-committee, provides for the purchase of silver bullion at a rate not exceeding 40,000,000 ounces a month, against which silver certificates will be issued. The government would control the price of silver and fix a maximum price of 75 cents an ounce.

Another measure, its author claims, would restore confidence by raising commodity prices through expanding the currency by using silver to broaden the metallic monetary base while preserving the gold standard.

Other bills would authorize the government to accept silver at its market value in payment of the war debts.

Few, if any, of these schemes are the brain-children of their sponsors. They have been cropping up in the same or similar form ever since the country has been on a gold standard and will continue to do so every time the silver industry is in the doldrums or the country has a visitation of hard times.

Here is a complex subject which few people, congressmen included, understand. There is little intelligent information and much unintelligent misinformation to be obtained in legislative halls, on the lecture platform and on the street corner.

The new currency issued under the emergency banking legislation initiated by President Roosevelt last week, already is circulating and its impact is being felt. It is the opposite of the silver certificates that is no gold or gold certificates are to be paid out.

The clearing of checks—a vital banking service to the nation's business—will probably be on a countrywide basis before the end of the week. Approximately 90 per cent of American business is done by check.

In New York City, through which much of the country's commercial credits pass, the clearing of checks between banks in the federal reserve cities was resumed yesterday. Checks on banks in 250 clearing house cities were being cleared today, and tomorrow morning checks will be on a nationwide basis.

Public schools everywhere are in financial straits but their position is better than that of the federal government which is spending $2 for every $1 of income. WEAK UNCLE SAM CHANGED TO VIGOROUS UNCLE SAMSON AS FEAR FLEES AND FAITH COMES

BY DALE HARRISON

NEW YORK, March 14.—(P—)

Call him Uncle Samson now!

A fortnight since, he was a pale and weary Uncle Sam, lunging about in economic delirium, staggering from over-draughts at the flagon of fear and sick from the flagon of dissipated confidence.

Today the laugh was back on his lips, his eyes flashed with new hope, the financial snarls were being combed from his sparse chin whiskers, and he faced his declining with courage in his heart and a song in his soul.

The roar of this Samson, clipped short by self-imposed little faith, already had sprouted anew, and the blood of trade, slowed to faint pulse by bank holidays, pounded again through his veins, positive sign of certain convalescence.

Member banks of the federal reserve system located in the twelve cities where the federal reserve has district banks, returned gradually to normal for yesterday, the first day of the opening following the national bank holiday.

New York, these banks reported more money received in deposits than paid out.

The American dollars displayed strength of foreign bourses that surprised spectators, the price in some instances rising above that which prevailed before the bank holiday.

Many cities reported a lively business upturn, it being noticed especially in department stores and in an increase in advertising in newspapers by retailers.

Hundreds of banks in more than 250 cities of the land were authorized to open today, in line with the plan of President Roosevelt which called for the progressive opening of "sound" banks.

Banks permitted to open today were those located in cities having recognized clearing houses, an exception being the banks of the 12 federal reserve bank cities where openings were authorized yesterday.

In addition to banks in clearing house cities, institutions in smaller cities were in some instances permitted to open today, provided their applications for reopening had time to receive the attention of designated officials.

Many additional banks will open tomorrow, and progressively throughout the week. In all cases certain treasury department restrictions prevail. The one repeatedly emphasized is that no gold or gold certificates are to be paid out.

A small "gold standard" police has been organized in New York to watch all outgoing passenger ships to prevent the carrying out of gold. Each passenger will be asked to sign an affidavit to the effect that he carries no gold. Persons suspected of being boarders will receive special scrutiny.

Other Regulations

The governor of the Federal Reserve Bank in New York announced that additional regulations had been issued by the treasury department of "Regulation No. 10" which is that regulation which authorizes certain activities by national or state banking institutions.

Under the interpretations made public today the payment of monies on account of pensions, workmen's compensation, disability insurance, relief and unemployment insurance is authorized. Funds may be released for purchase of certain securities.

"I have no doubt whatever that 3.2 per cent beer is permissible under the constitution," Ashurst said to reporters.

MEASURE IS SENT THROUGH ITS FIRST
STEP ON TUESDAYSENATE EXPECTED TO PASS
BILL BEFORE END OF WEEK
AND SEND IT TO PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Mar. 14. (P)—The house today passed the Cullen 3.2 per cent beer bill. It now goes to the senate.

Action came little more than 24 hours after President Roosevelt requested congress to legalize non-intoxicating beer for revenue.

Three hours of debate preceded the final vote. Prohibitionists made a desperate but futile stand against the tide of beer sentiment.

It was the second time within three months the house approved beer legislation. On December 21, 1932, it passed the Collier bill 230 to 160.

Only a majority vote was required under the procedure, and the membership apparently took the result as a foregone conclusion.

There was more interest in whether senate democratic leaders will succeed in plans to have it sent to the white house for signing into law by the week-end.

House galleries were only partly filled. When the vote was taken to pass a similar bill last December 21, standing room was at a premium.

When the bill was taken up today, Representative Blanton (D., Texas), a prohibitionist, said "if this bill could be stopped by objection to unanimous consent it would be, but I realize it can't be stopped."

Representative Cullen (D., N. Y.), assistant party leader, took charge of the bill.

Representative Treadway (R., Mass.) was in charge of the republican anti-prohibitionist.

Cullen estimated that the measure would yield up to $150,000,000 in taxes and provide work for 500,000.

WASHINGTON, March 14. (P)—Speaker Rainey told newspapermen today beer bill would be passed by the house before adjournment tonight.

Senate leaders likewise planned to expedite the legislation requested yesterday by President Roosevelt, the capitol expectation appearing to be that the bill would be ready for his signature at least before the week is out.

CONCRETE POURING CHENEYBORO LATERAL HAS BEEN COMPLETED

WORK ON EMHOUSE ROAD
BE STARTED SATURDAY
CONTRACTOR STATES

Pouring of the 9-foot slab on the Navarro-Cheneyboro optional lateral road was completed Wednesday shortly after noon by the F. P. McElwraith Construction company and the pouring of the 9-foot slab from Emhouse to the county line at Chambers creek is to start Saturday morning, according to an announcement Thursday morning by F. P. McElwraith, president of the company.

The new slab will be opened for traffic as soon as possible. The Navarro-Cheneyboro road is approximately four miles in length and connects with the pavement at Navarro, extending to Cheneyboro. Approximately three miles of the road was poured on the southern portion last fall and is open for traffic, with about one mile of the new slab closed adjacent to Navarro.

M. M. McElwraith stated the machinery etc. will be shipped to Emhouse and was scheduled to be set up Friday and pouring of the slab will start Saturday morning. The slab at Emhouse will furnish an all-weather road to the Ellis county hard-surfaced roads formerly the official route of Highway 14.

It was reported Thursday that the Union Paving company, contractor on Highway 31 between Powell and Kerens had been unable to ship required amounts temporarily due to a shortage of materials, but will resume as soon as the materials can be secured.

It is expected this road can be finished in six or eight days of work, and the last gap in the pavement between Corsicana and East Texas points.

"Mr. Calvert was born in Giles county, Tenn., Feb. 22, 1905. After being graduated from the State Home High School (Corsicana) in 1923 he entered the University School of Law from which he was graduated in 1931. J. A. Anderson, Kerens 1; B. F. Brooks, Cuellar, Clegg, Fouty, Navarro; D. F. Bell, Rice, Zack Westbrook, Powell 1; John Schafer, manager of the Pacific area, since the evening of the disaster. Governor Ralph of California has designated the Red Cross as the official relief and rehabilitation agency.

"Our representatives estimate that approximately 7,500 families require assistance from the Red Cross, and a large relief fund will be required. The National organization has made an initial contribution of $50,000, and an energetic campaign for contributions has been initiated by California chapters. Chapters of the Midwestern area should present the appeal for this disaster through the local press and by such other means as may be available. No quotas will be assigned but definite steps should be immediately taken to advise the public of this appeal and encourage generous contributions, particularly from those who have particular interests in the area affected.

Friends and relatives of persons resident in California and business interests are undoubtedly awaiting word of this appeal to make contributions to the relief fund. They should be promptly notified of their opportunity to do so by the presentation of this appeal."

No Entangling Alliances.

British leaders, such as Winston Churchill and Lloyd George, of opposing political faiths, warn the traveling British government officials not to come home with strong alliances and not to discriminate between France and Germany.

Merriot of France protested in a newspaper article that British charges France was militaristic.

Replies to a parliamentary question, Defense Minister Bradac of Czechoslovakia—France's ally on Germany's eastern border—said last night he "has full confidence in the army's power of resistance."

The uncertain situation abroad was quoted by his questioner.

Poland, another nation in close relation with France, and Germany have momentarily weathered a threatening crisis involving the free city of Danzig and reported troop concentrations in the Polish corridor. Poland has promised the League its border military garrisons will be reduced to a minimum.

Hitler's Actions Worry.

The warlike activities of Hitler's Nazi storm troopers and the Stahlhelm in Germany and the threat of Hitlerites gaining control in Austria and uniting the two Germanic nations has their neighbors worried.

France has protested to Germany against concentration of Nazi troops in the Rhineland border area.

Italian deputies launched a broadside yesterday against the alleged "mad armament" of Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia recently reorganized their little entente.

Hungarian newspapers demanded an explanation of reports that it included a plan for military occupation of that country and received a flat denial.

The recent report of arms shipments to Hungary from Italy via Austria stirred up suspicions of new triple alliance among those countries and Germany. Strong protests from the little entente and France and England brought a promise that the arms would be returned.

British and French newspapers regard the Balkans, as in 1914, the real danger spot on the European map.

Assistant National Bank Examiner For This District Named

Appointment of a new assistant national banking examiner recently was announced late Wednesday by E. B. Hough, examiner in charge of the Corsicana sub-district with offices in the Corsicana Post office.

Harris McAshan, formerly of Houston, is the new assistant and arrived in Corsicana Thursday to assume his new duties. He will make his headquarters in Corsicana.

Mr. McAshan is the son of J. V. Willson, one of Mrs. Judd's attorneys. He said last night four members of the jury which convicted Mrs. Judd of murder were of the belief the pardon and parole board would commute the death penalty and that only with death facing her would Mrs. Judd expose others the jurors believed might be involved in the slaying of Mrs. Agnes Lerol and Miss Hilda Samelson.

SAN ANTONIO, March 16.—(P.)—The Democratic nomination for the congressional office relinquished by John N. Garner when he became vice president apparently has been clinched by Milton H. West, Brownsville attorney.

Unofficial tabulation of votes cast in yesterday's party run-off primary in the 15th Texas District gave West 12,484, and his opponent, Gordon Griffin, 9,821.

On the face of returns, which appeared to be nearly complete, West will enter the special election April 22 against Carlos Watson of Brownsville, the Republican choice, to determine Garner's successor.

A tabulation of votes in the district last night showed a total of 22,305 had been accounted for. In the first primary only 21,516 votes were counted. There are 23 counties in the district and the votes in eight of them were known to be complete.

TORNADO, FLOODS, MORE QUAKE AND HEAVY SNOWSTORM

THIRTY DEAD AND MANY INJURED IN TENNESSEE-KENTUCKY TWISTER TUESDAY

(By The Associated Press) Mother Nature, a harried again, had several sections of America quailing before her vixen fury today.

A tornado, floods, heavy snows, and the after-grumble of an earthquake, were the things with which she whipped the land.

The tornado tore late yesterday from the Mississippi river to the Cumberland mountains, along the Tennessee-Kentucky border. At least 30 persons died, more than 200 were injured. Property damage was estimated conservatively at over $1,000,000.

Shocks continued in southern California, but no serious damage was apparent. Recurrent tremors made no difference to the stricken people of Long Beach, hardest hit community in the quake area, as they pressed plans for quick rehabilitation. They were seeking aid from the R. F. C. to help rebuild dwellings, damaged to an extent estimated at $25,000,000.

The Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, swollen by rain, swept 37 feet above the flood level at Pittsburgh. A steamer sank yesterday, other vessels rippled from their moorings, water commerce was disrupted. Damage spread along the shores.

Snow was nature's portion for northern New Hampshire, plenty of it. Eight inches fell in a blizzard yesterday, but citizens managed to get to town meeting just the same.

Tennessee-Kentucky Swept By Twister

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 15. (P) A tornado which lashed the Tennessee-Kentucky border last night left a toll of 36 known dead and more than 200 injured in the wreckage of homes which marked its path from the Mississippi to the Cumberland mountains.

Nashville had at least 10 dead; Pruden 9, Lebanon 4, Kingsport 6, Belwood 1, Harrrogate 2, Rogersville 2, Oswego 1, and Millspoint 1.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 15. (P) A tornado lashed the Tennessee-Kentucky border from the Mississippi to the Cumberlands last night and left behind it 30 known dead, more than 200 injured and property damage estimated above $1,000,000.

The twister struck after preliminary blows at the Arkansas and Missouri side of the Mississippi and moved a path of destruction from the valley to the mountains through Nashville, Harrrogate, Jellico and Kingsport, Tenn., touching many small villages on the way.

The list of dead and injured as reports trickled in from the rural communities over crippled communication lines.

Nashville, a city of more than 150,000 and the Tennessee capital, felt the full force of the storm as the driving winds dipped over a fringe of hills and cut across the eastern portion of the community, bowing over houses, damaging buildings, uprooting trees and littering the streets with debris. At least eight were killed here.

Lights over the city were snapped and power lines fell. Ambulances drove through uncertain streets to take some 100 or more injured to hospitals where physicians had to work for a time with improvised illumination.

Scores of buildings in East Nashville were leveled and the national guard was called out to preserve order. Rescue workers with flashlights picked their way over trees and through debris in the hunt for the dead and injured.

Other States Also Hit

First report of storm damage came from Northeast Arkansas and Southeast Missouri. Heavy damage was reported at Caruthersville.

Then the storm headed eastward and across the state. The little town of Pruden in the coal mine country reported eight dead. In Kingsport, East Tennessee industrial center, six were killed and Jellico suffered heavy damage.

Holton, Atiras, Coalfield, Valley City, Forest, Newcomb, Woodlawn and Proctor, all in the upper Tennessee country, were hit.

Damage at Jellico was estimated at more than $100,000 and in the Clear Fork valley about $55,000.

The storm winds also reached into the blue grass country and there was hail in its wake as it spent its force apparently against the East Tennessee mountains.

There were dead at Oswego, Harrrogate, Mint Point and at Belwood in the Tennessee storm area.

Relief forces were organized quickly and the rescue work was pushed to the utmost as daylight neared.

New White House Record Is Set By Real President

WASHINGTON, March 16. (P) A new White House record: Twelve days in office and President Roosevelt has received 14,000 telegrams praising his actions.

And here's a record too: 1,500 telegrams were said there today to have supported his veterans' and federal pay cut economy program, while only 39 disapproved.

The peak of this business was reached after the President's address explaining in simple terms what the banking situation was and why.

NEW MESSAGE

(Continued From Page 1) Once it was read, all was set for the house to go after the farm bill first. Leaders expected it to be passed by Saturday, with the agriculture committee approving it tomorrow.

The Senate found another part of the Roosevelt budget—balancing program—the house had been built up for prompt consideration. There was talk there of getting that bill also, to the White House by late today or to morrow.

House Ready to Act On New Farm Bill

WASHINGTON, March 16. (P) Without waiting for the farm bill message promised from the White House before night fall, leaders of the house gave assurance today that the agricultural legislation would be passed and sent to the Senate by the end of the week.

The actual draft of the bill, President Roosevelt's message was being completed this morning. Secretary Wallace sought to have it ready for Congress immediately after the message was read.

The message, described by White House aides as a terse 600 words, covering both farm and unemployment relief, was not to be transmitted before 5 o'clock this evening (E.S.T.).

Majority Leader Byrnes of the house announced he planned to push the bill to passage by the end of the week, putting it immediately up to the Senate.

It was learned that in framing the farm bill the principles of the domestic allotment plan have not been abandoned entirely. Leasing of lands engaged in surplus production will be a principal feature but provisions will be included for a propping tax, one of the main points in the allotment plan.

It is through this tax that the measure proposes to provide much of the revenue to make possible retirement of land by leasing.

Representatives of farm organizations, whose suggestions formed the basis for the bill proposed that Wallace be given broad powers to select from many plans in working out methods of production curtailment covering cotton, wheat, corn, hogs, rice, cattle, sheep, tobacco, milk and its products.

BANKS RECEIVING MORE MONEY THAN BEING WITHDRAWN

ERA OF FEAR HAS PASSED SECRETARY OF TREASURY WOODIN SAYS

By The Associated Press.

Driving toward a speedy return to normal banking throughout the entire nation, federal and state agencies today authorized the re-opening of financial institutions in most of the clearing house centers of the country.

The list of banks resuming activities mounted steadily as notices of re-openings poured in throughout the day, and by mid-afternoon the total appeared to be well up in the thousands.

Commercial houses, with authorizations from the twelve federal districts and state superintendents, led the way and their number was augmented by savings and private banks over the March 15.

Hurried checks showed that hundreds of millions of dollars were flooding the reopening institutions in deposits, and that withdrawals were comparatively light.

Secretary Woodin said hoarders were bringing in their gold in huge quantities and that reports from all centers showed individuals and corporations alike were displaying the kind of confidence which the financial structure of the nation warranted.

Many cities reported their entire banking systems again in operation. There were cases where institutions still were operating under restrictions, but cities like Lexington and Louisville, both in Kentucky, were operating under normal conditions.

Commercial houses in many cities established an opening range of prices above the expectations of trade, although on the basis of spot cotton prices quoted during the past few days market follow-ups had looked for a jump of $2 to $3 a bale on the first transactions.

Aide from the professional operators, the trade apparently felt better in bidding for grain, particularly because of the restored confidence in the banking situation and other factors occurring within the holiday period pointing to improvement in the economic situation, including a possible turn in the long drawn out process of deflation in commodity prices.

After the first rush of buying, the market eased a little largely on realization and some hedge selling. Reactions from the high levels off the active contracts about $2.50 a bale over the March 15.

Secretary Woodin said the market was holding up well, despite the fact that the market was still incomplete—were for the reopening of commercial banks only.

New York, 73; Boston, 97; Philadelphia, 183; Cleveland, 128; Kansas City, 171; Dallas, 77; San Francisco, 50; Richmond, 50; Atlanta, 69; Chicago, 74; St. Louis, 14; Minneapolis, 62.

These totals in virtually every case were greatly increased by the addition of savings and private banks. For example, the first reserve district, which comprises almost all of New England reported many savings banks reopening. In most instances withdrawals from these banks was limited.

The return to virtually normal banking in many of the large financial centers of this country was reflected in the foreign markets, where trading in the dollar market was brisk and firm.

WASHINGTON, March 14. (P) Secretary Woodin said today bank deposits were exceeding withdrawals generally in the cities where banks were being reopened and that "the era of fear" was completely passed.

He made his statement after reports had come to the federal reserve board of progress toward opening hundreds of banks in the country today.

At about the same time, the Senate banking committee was advancing the Robinson bill to allow state banks to borrow from the federal reserve, but with the understanding that the measure was not to be pressed if it were found that present laws met the needs.

Referring in his talk with newspapermen to the fact that the banks had started reopening on March 13, Woodin said:

"The people have been co-operating with us magnificently. I am beginning to believe a superstitious attitude has long maintained that is 10 or 15 years, if not longer."

"A little while ago the stress of the present will have passed. People are using the reopened banks as banks were intended to be used—as a convenience in paying their bills and safeguarding their funds. In other words, the country understands what the administration is doing and is showing its confidence—that means everything."

The secretary apologized for being unable to answer some questions saying too many things were in the formative stage.

Seventy-Two in Second District.

NEW YORK, March 14. (P) Seventy-two member banks of the second federal reserve district outside of New York city reopened today. Fifty-two New York city members reopened yesterday.

Of the second district members opening today 28 were in 10 up-state cities; 42 were in 14 New Jersey cities, and two were in two Connecticut communities.

At the height of the early rally, it was announced that a New York curb exchange membership had been sold at $39,000, an advance of $4,000 from the previous transaction.

While merchants were feeling more hopeful than in many months, and with the banks rapidly resuming their normal routine, plans were being pushed for the resumption of the work of the Corcoran Unemployed Relief Committee, which will result in a gradual betterment of conditions which could be greatly augmented and speeded by the enactment of permanent measures by Congress as soon as the temporary program is placed in effect.

At the end of the first half hour of trading, May cotton had advanced to seven cents flat and December was quoted at 74.75.

Wheat, following fairly strong foreign markets that prevailed while the American marines were closed during the bank holiday, rose five cents at the start with pandemonium of shouts and dizzy waving of finger bid signals making the pit into a maelstrom of frantic men.

All other grains advanced at their opening as much as the new limit rule allowed.

May cotton touched 63 7-8 cents just the 3 cent limit of advance over the close on March 3 and less than 4 cents under the price a year ago.

May cotton jumped the limit of 4 cents to 39 2-3 bushel, rose the limit of 4 cents to 39 but oats did not at once rise the limit of 2 cents.

New York Cotton Advanced.

NEW YORK, March 16. (P) Wheat advanced 5 cents above the March 3 price at the resumption of trading on the New York Cotton Exchange today. March opened at 65 5-8 cents and May at 63 3-4 cents a pound.

Opening advances were extended more than a dollar a bale in the first few minutes of trading as a result of active trade buying for price fixing and speculative demand, representing short covering and long buying.

October contracts sold at 71-2 cents, up 6.40, bale, or nearly a cent a pound above the March 3 closing level; December at 7 100 cents up $4.75 a bale; January 7 65-100, up $4.25; July 6 100 cents up $3. May contracts were bid up $3 a bale to 6 cents.

Heavy deposits of money in the New York City banks this week are being reflected in the return of confidence in the local business, some banks which reported that the net inflow yesterday approximated $55,000,000, bring the total for the first three days of this week to about $152,000,000. Gold continues to be received at the federal bank in substantial sums, yesterday's return amounting to $24,000,000. Just before noon it was announced that

OPTIMISM AND GOOD CHEER MARK RESUMPTION BANK- ING BUSINESS HERE

"New Deal Day," sponsored by Corsicana citizens for a three-fold purpose Wednesday found the citizenship whole-heartedly joining in the big event which honored President Franklin D. Roosevelt as a man of action, celebrated the re-opening of the Corsicana banks, and marked the visible "turn around the corner" of Corsicana's march toward normalcy and the happy days that are here again.

As the First National and the State National Banks re-opened their doors for the first time since the city was in military attire, with flags flying in the March breeze, and broad smiles of relief and satisfaction on the faces of the citizenry. Backs were slapped indiscriminately as both merchants and customers expressed their confidence and good will, and in the stores and on the streets arms were used as "pump-handles" as citizen congratulated citizen upon the biggest event in the history of Corsicana and the nation.

Other Banks Open. At the same time that Corsicana banks were opening, financial institutions in Richland,

PERMITS DELAYED
Both Corsicana banks were authorized to resume normal banking operations on Tuesday, March 14, according to the permits received Wednesday from the Secretary of the Treasury at Washington. The fact was revealed when the permits arrived by mail.

For some reason as yet unexplained, the forwarding of the permits was delayed by the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank for twenty-four hours.

The dating of the permits indicated that both the First National and the State National Banks had been checked and approved by the Treasury officials in time to be included in the list of major cities which opened for business Tuesday.

Streetman, Keren, Powell, Rice, Purdon, Dawson, and Frost re-opened their doors on an unrestricted basis. Many of them resumed business for the first time since the proclamation of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson issued on Texas Independence Day, March 2, depriving many of the communities of any kind of banking facilities except change making for two weeks.

For the Corsicana banks, it marked the third stage in their progressive opening program; from Thursday, Mar. 15, to Sunday, March 5, they were closed under state proclamation; on that date, President Roosevelt closed all of the banks by national order, and that held them; Monday night, March 6, the Secretary of the Treasury announced rules and regulations under which the banks might resume limited operations, and the two Corsican institutions, and the first bank in Texas to take advantage of the offer, and give additional service to their patrons, and the community, as a whole; many Texas banks did not avail themselves of the opportunity during the entire holiday period; the final stage began Wednesday, the banks were opened unrestricted.

Great Parade Staged.

One of the greatest parades ever staged in the city of Corsicana made its way through the business section of Corsicana about 9:30 Wednesday morning, starting off from the intersection of the expressway of the confidence of the citizenship in the local financial institutions, released both buyers and sellers from the last vestiges of fear and uncertainty and gave concrete evidence to the entire world that Corsicana was ready for prosperity, and had embraced the "new deal" whole-heartedly and with all determination.

Heading the giant parade was the official consumer police escort, Mayor J. W. Edens, President, Sydney Marks, the Retail Merchants Association, R. L. Calkins and J. M. Dyer, Jr., directors of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce.

Then came the entire fire-fighting equipment of the city headed by Fire Chief Elmer Keith, with the State Home Band under the direction of Garner Clark mounted on a truck supplying the music for this section of the parade.

Following the most musical and interesting section of the parade was the Corsicana High School band under the command of Drum Major Randolph Mitchell and under the direction of Joel C. Trimble, in full uniform, heading some 1200 students from the Corsicana Junior and Senior high schools, who marched from their respective buildings in a body to the point of origin at Third and North Beaton street.

Appropriate signs were carried by the students, and in almost every instance both bore double slogans, hastily penciled words "We Want Beer" appeared on the reverse side of such slogans as "Depositors Doing Duty," "New Deal Day," "Hooray Days Are Here Again," and several others of similar sentiment.

Following the vociferous students, came long lines of new automobiles entered in the procession by the automobile drivers of Corsicana, augmented by private owners, and then came the commercial sections with many merchants placing their trucks in the procession. The Odd Fellows Home Band under the direction of W. O. Barlow completed the musical complement of the procession.

Some idea of the length of the Parade can be ascertained from the fact that when the official car turned west on Seventh avenue, the last groups had not even moved from the starting point! The procession brought merchants and shopkeepers to the sidewalk, and the infectious spirit of happiness and confidence spread rapidly.

FAITH AND CONFIDENCE (An Editorial)

NEW DEAL DAY!
Banks re-opened—confidence restored—a spirit of cooperation prevailing—the atmosphere charged with the desire to go to work and bring the country out of the gloomy depths.

A leadership has been established in which the people have unwavering faith.

Indeed—a NEW DEAL is now assured.

It was NEW DEAL day in Corsicana and celebrated as such.

The citizens gave vent to their pent up feelings and emotions of the past few weeks in a joyful demonstration of their faith in our local and national financial structure.

The order was reversed in Corsicana today. In the place of the banks giving a reception the citizens gave a reception with the banks as the honor guests. Faith in our local financial institutions was demonstrated in every way possible and bonds of friendship and confidence were further welded with links of sincere expressions of loyalty and desire to co-operate. We have reason to be proud of our local banks and the men heading these institutions.

History was written in Corsicana when the First National and the State National Banks opened their doors for business on an unrestricted basis.

It was written on a clean white sheet in the ledger under the heading of FAITH with the background of a PROSPERITY SUN in its ascendancy reflecting a many hued RAINBOW of GOOD TIMES to come.

FAITH and CONFIDENCE are the watch words backed by the desire to work.

A NEW DEAL for everybody.

commercial organizations made their appearance in the lobbies of both banks and all through the day hundreds of people paused to thank the confidence of the bankers and to assure them of their support and co-operation as they made their deposits.

The day started off normally in the banks, with about ten customers in the State National Bank and a similar number in the First National, but within a few minutes the bank lobbies had assumed a normal post-holiday appearance with depositors bringing long lists of cash and checks for deposit.

Withdrawals were at a minimum, the proportion between deposits and withdrawals running 20 to 1 for every 100, officials estimated for the noon. Almost at the withdrawal were made by the cashing of small salary checks by those who are accustomed to follow that procedure, or by housewives who needed small sums for their daily shopping.

No Unusual Demands. Both banks reported that there had been no unusual demands for cash and absolutely no indication of any one desiring large sums of cash with the intention of hoarding it.

As soon as notification was received by Corsicana banks Tuesday afternoon that their permits were in the mail, they began telephoning their larger depositors who co-operated by bringing in their extensive holdings of checks and the bulk of this business was cleared by the staffs of the two institutions Tuesday night, enabling them to handle the customers without any delay Wednesday.

SEMI-FINALS AND FINALS IN COUNTY MEET MONDAY NIGHT

NAVARRO RUNNERUP, WITH CORBET TAKING THIRD PLACE IN TOURNEY

Slightly favored from the beginning of the tournament Union High weathered four games to win the 1933 Navarro county girls' title by defeating Navarro, 24-13 in the final game at the Y. M. C. A. here Monday night. Corbet defeated State Home 11-8 in the consolation game for third place title.

An added attraction, Dallas Shoe Shop girls team playing four picked teams of the county one quarter each, was put on for the cash customers at 7 o'clock last night. The Dallas team won 38-12 from Bryan, Frost, Mildred and Powell.

The tournament opened Saturday, March 4, with 25 teams at the post, and was continued through the quarter-final last Saturday. The semi-final and consolation games were tapped off Monday afternoon and night before good sized audiences.

Navarro advanced to the final by defeating Corbet 12-11 in a hair-raising event Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Union High hoped to a 30-12 decision over State Home in the other semi-final game at 5 o'clock, to win the right to meet Navarro in the final game.

Final Game. In the final game, Navarro held Union High fairly close, 6-4, in the first period, but the ultimate winner pulled away in the second to lead 13-5, and there was little doubt the remainder of the game as to which team would win the cup. Union High was leading 18-9 end third quarter, and 24-13 as the whistle blew to end the game.

Jordan, Union High forward, lead the attack with 15 points, while Reamy accounted for 11. The excellent guarding of Hazel Rose, Union High, was one major reason for Navarro's defeat.

A battle functioning center department than Navarro's has seldom been seen on the Y. M. C. A. court here. It is composed of Hutson jump center, and L. Chambliss, running center.

While Jordan outpointed Reamy in the final game, the latter player is one of the smoothest playing forwards seen during the tournament. She not only has a deadly eye for the basket, but navigates the ball to get jillions of crisp shots.

Consolation Close. The consolation game was a close one from beginning to end. State Home was leading 4-1 at the first period, and trailing 7-6 at the half. State Home added a due of points in the third, while Corbet's scoring was nullified to lead 8-7 at the end of the third. Corbet, Corbet forward, got 10 in the closing stanza, adding 12 more of basket, and saluted the game for Corbet. State Home was held scoreless in the final period.

Probably the best two guards of the field were seen when E. Kirby, Corbet, and McKeever, State Home, were on the court in the consolation game.

Playing two-division court basketball for the first time, four picked Navarro county teams dropped a 38-12 decision to the famous Dallas Shoe Shop girls. The Corsicana girls were at first handicapped by not knowing what to do with their newly acquired liberties—the run of half court—but soon acclimated themselves to it, and put up a creditable showing against such strong opposition.

Three Teams Score. Bryan, playing the first period, made the score 8-4 during their half. Frost, in the second, made the most creditable showing, by ringing up 12 points for the Navarro county cause. Mildred, in the third, failed to score, while the visitors were accounting for an additional 11 points. Powell, closing the engagement, made two points, and held the Slippers to 7.

All the Navaro county girls were additionally handicapped by the height of the Dallas lassies. The Slippers had a smooth working offense, and the forwards had a dead eye for the basket.

Cowley was high with 15 and Jett, who started at guard, but prevailed on Coach Danny Lynch to move her to forward and handled the ball beautifully, and turned in 10 points in the last half.

Officials of the tournament were Danny Lynch, Dallas, referee; John Haslam, scorer; and Victor Gill, timer.
